DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(c), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(c) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 2/10/09 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-13, 15-35, 37-56 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tucker et al (US 4,193,397) in view of Karp (US 2003/0133358). Tucker discloses an infusion apparatus that includes a medication reservoir, a carrier reservoir, a mixing chamber 88, a medication flow path, a carrier flow path, a medication pump system, and an outlet port. The device also includes a bolus port, a medication flow restrictor, and a carrier flow restrictor (col. 5, line 53 – col. 6, line 13, col. 7, lines 28-33). These restrictors can be more or less restrictive than one another. The device also includes a power cell.

3. Claims 1, 19, 41, 49 differ from Tucker in calling for the mixing chamber to be a microfluidic chip having a capillary pathway disposed in a serpentine pattern. Claims 15 and 16 call for the flow restrictors to be a microfluidic chip. Tucker discloses that mixing chamber 88 serves to mix multiple fluids and deliver the mixture to the patient (col. 9, lines 55-65). Karp teaches a microfluidic chip for mixing multiple fluid streams without a need for moving parts. The chip has a capillary pathway in a serpentine pattern. See Figs. 13 A-E. This configuration allows for complete mixing of the two fluids in a compact area without the use of moving parts that add to the cost of manufacture as well as the life of the device. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify the device of Tucker to include the microfluidic chip as taught by Karp to allow for better mixing of the two fluids without adding any complicated structures or mechanisms to the device.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments, see pages 15, 16, filed 2/10/09, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1, 19, 41, 49 under Tucker have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Tucker in view of Karp.
